Fire Island National Seashore Recruits New Volunteers

Are you looking for a unique opportunity to spend time outdoors in a national park? Do you want to give back to your community? Acting Superintendent Barry Sullivan announces that Fire Island National Seashore is now recruiting new park volunteers for the upcoming summer season.

Volunteers at Fire Island National Seashore assist park staff with a wide variety of programs from staffing visitor centers and assisting with educational programs for groups, to helping with resource management and maintenance projects.

On Saturday, March 29, Fire Island National Seashore will host a recruitment day for people interested in learning more about park volunteer opportunities. There will be a follow up day of orientation and training on Saturday, April 12. These events will take place at the River Room near the park's Patchogue Maintenance Facility on West Avenue in Patchogue, NY.

To learn more about Fire Island, visit the park's web site at www.nps.gov/fiis. For more information or questions about positions, please contact Volunteer Coordinator Irene Rosen at 631-661-2556.
